LEARN MORE ABOUT THE LATEST IBD DISCOVERIES AT DDW®

Join a global community of GI leaders at Digestive Disease Week® (DDW), where you’ll further your understanding of the latest advancements in inflammatory bowel diseases (IBD) research — and be part of impactful conversations with some of the brightest minds in and outside your niche.

Explore key findings relevant to your role with an expanded collection of sessions — including research fora, clinical symposia and plenary sessions — all tagged to the Inflammatory Bowel Disease (IBD) Track. Whether you participate in person in San Diego or virtually, you’ll gain valuable insights on topics and innovations that affect your day-to-day, while helping to enhance our collective knowledge of digestive diseases.

SESSIONS SLATED FOR THE DDW 2022 IBD TRACK INCLUDE:

• Clinical Challenges in IBD From the AGA Community Forum
• Dr. Ellen Scherl — Jill Roberts Lecture: The Psychological Impact of IBD
• Immunology, Microbiology & Inflammatory Bowel Diseases (IMIBD) Section Distinguished Abstract Plenary
• Visceral Pain in IBS and IBD
• Diagnosing and Managing Pediatric IBD in the 21st Century
• Overcoming Common Day to Day Practice Challenges in IBD Management
• Diet and the Gut Microbiome for IBD
• Case-Based Approach to Endoscopic Challenges in IBD
• Controversies in IBD Management
• Timing of Resection for Patients with Severe IBD

Secure your place at ddw.org/registration.

Registration and housing are open now for AASLD, AGA, ASGE and SSAT members. General registration and housing open Jan. 26.

The full session schedule will be available on the DDW website by the end of January 2022.