

Can Small Changes in Practice Make a Difference to Your Patients With Crohn's Disease?

Monday, May 20, 2024 | 6:15 – 7:15pm EDT | Embassy Suites – Capital BCD | Washington, D.C.

Agenda

- 6:15 – 6:25pm A Holistic Approach to Treat-to-Target in Crohn's Disease
Charles Bernstein, MD
- 6:25 – 6:40pm Moving Beyond the New Normal to Address Unmet Patient Needs
Millie D. Long, MD, MPH
- 6:40 – 6:55pm Practical Approaches to Mental Health Concerns
Jessica Salwen-Deremer, PhD, DBSM
- 6:55 – 7:05pm Panel Discussion: Key Takeaways and Clinical Implications
Charles Bernstein, Millie D. Long, Jessica Salwen-Deremer
- 7:05 – 7:15pm Q&A

Dinner will be served at 6:00pm

Learning Objectives

- Apply a holistic approach to treat-to-target in Crohn's disease
- Employ practical strategies to address unmet patient needs
- Integrate symposium learnings through an interactive panel discussion

Faculty

Charles Bernstein, MD (Chair)
Distinguished Professor of Medicine, Director, University of Manitoba Clinical and Research Centre; Bingham Chair of Gastroenterology, Rady Faculty of Health Sciences, University of Manitoba, Manitoba, Canada

Millie D. Long, MD, MPH
Professor of Medicine, Vice Chief for Education, Division of Gastroenterology and Hepatology, University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, North Carolina, USA

Jessica Salwen-Deremer, PhD, DBSM
Assistant Professor of Psychiatry & Medicine, Section of Gastroenterology & Hepatology, Geisel School of Medicine, Dartmouth-Hitchcock Medical Center, New Hampshire, USA